A new way to experience Milan, between light, quiet and design.

There's a Milan that's growing silently, elegant and contemporary, where everyday life intertwines with spaces designed to be truly lived in.

A few steps from the renowned Fondazione Prada, in one of the city's most dynamic and evolving neighborhoods, an exclusive residence is born.

In a new, intimate, and private building with just seven units, this 129-square-meter four-room apartment exudes a sense of home made of light, balance, and comfort.

You're greeted by a spacious and airy living room, where the open-plan kitchen becomes the hub of everyday life. Large windows lead to the loggia balcony, a space suspended between inside and outside, perfect for slowing down the pace of the day.

The sleeping area is designed as a private retreat: a double bedroom with en suite bathroom, two single bedrooms, and a second bathroom. These spaces adapt to a changing lifestyle, between family, work, and time for yourself.

Every detail speaks of a quality choice: the Giordano parquet flooring, the Gessi taps, the Marazzi finishes. Elements that aren't just on display, but experienced every day.

Outside, the project offers what is increasingly rare today: privacy, greenery, and open spaces. The terrace becomes a natural extension of the home, a place to enjoy in every season.

Technology is integrated discreetly-predisposition for burglar alarms and video surveillance-because comfort also comes from peace of mind.

Here, everything is close by: services, schools, sports, and quick connections to the city center. But above all, here you can breathe the idea of a new, contemporary Milan, where living isn't just about living, but about choosing a lifestyle.

To support your vision of the spaces, we publish images with renderings and furnishing ideas, designed to help you better imagine the home's potential and atmosphere.

The property includes a convenient cellar in the basement.
